The Daily Telegraph

Grown in the foothills of the alps, the jacquère grapes makes wines that are as fresh and lively as a blast of cold mountain air. This one's made from the fruit of old vines, so it has bit of hold and minerality too. Think bone needles. Very refreshing. Saturday 4 of june / 2016.

100% Jacquère, unoaked. Delicately scented on the nose. Somehow smells of spring. Not particularly intense but rather pretty and scented on the palate. Bone dry, light bodied and fragrantly fresh. (JH)
